DEMOCRATIC  NATIONAL CONVENTION

Hillary Clinton: 'I will be president for all'

Democratic presidential candidate Hillary Clinton, on accepting her party's nomination, said, "Standing here as my mother's daughter, and my daughter's mother, I'm so happy this day has come. ... When there are no ceilings, the sky's the limit."

PHILADELPHIA - Hillary Diane Rodham Clinton, who sacrificed personal ambition for her husband's political career and then rose to be a globally influential figure, became the first woman to accept a major party's presidential nomination Thursday night, a prize that generations of American women have dreamed about for one of their own. Declaring that the nation was at "a moment of reckoning," Clinton, 68, urged voters to reject the divisive policy ideas and combative politics of the Republican nominee, Donald Trump. She offered herself as a steady and patriotic American who would stand up for citizens of all races and creeds and unite the country to persevere against Islamic terror-

PHILADELPHIA - When you're from New York and practice your politics on a big-time stage, it's tough to escape the national obsession called presidential speculation. Include two of New York's major Democrats - Gov. Andrew M. Cuomo and Sen. Kirsten E. Gillibrand - in that quadrennial game. They may not show any outward signs of seeking the White House, but neither do they avoid the spotlight afforded by events such as this week's Democratic National Convention. Cuomo occupied the brightest

Owner puts Boulevard Mall up for sale

By JONATHAN D. EPSTEIN
NEWS BUSINESS REPORTER

Boulevard Mall, the oldest enclosed shopping mall in the region, is up for sale - for the first time in more than 50 years.

The surprise recent move

by Forest City Enterprises could transform the local retail ownership landscape, as the region's No. 2 mall is one of the largest retail properties to go on the market in many years.

However, it's not expected to have any immediate impact on the mall's stores or shoppers, as there's no definitive buyer or agreement, nor final decision to sell.

"We're business as usual here," said Brian Calvert, the mall's general manager.

Conflict still rages over police killings

By JOSEPH GOLDSTEIN
NEW YORK TIMES

NEW YORK - The black teenager had just reached into his waistband for what the New York City police officer assumed was a gun. As the officer, Richard Haste, later told a Bronx grand jury, he thought he was about to die.

In that instant, Haste pictured Thanksgiving, with everyone gathered around, except him. He imagined his girlfriend walking their dog, without him, according to an account of the officer's testimony provided by his lawyer, Stuart London.

Haste fired a single shot.

But there was no gun in Ramarley Graham's hand, only a bag of marijuana, which Graham, 18, threw into a toilet be-
