SENATE ACQUITS TRUMP IN CAPITOL RIOT; 7 REPUBLICANS JOIN IN VOTE TO CONVICT

By Alexander Burns

As the final vote dawned on Monday, Donald J. Trump, 34 months from the moment he incited insurrection on the Capitol steps, faced his ultimate day in court.

A 57-to-43 tally falls 10 Votes Short of a GUILTY Verdict

At a school in Washington Heights, teachers, principals and union representatives are in the building most days and seemed to lack the technical complaints while skirted in number and seemed to lack the confusion of New York's early reopening.

The vote stands as a pivotal moment for the party Mr. Trump still bruised from the most violent partisan standoffs in an age of polarization.

“It’s important for me to connect the students to the community, to tell them what they can do, what they are capable of, and that they are important to this community.”

The strength of the plan will be in the hands of the teachers, but as it stands, 50,000 school teachers are already teaching in classrooms that were not designed for learning, and 50,000 school teachers are already teaching in classrooms that were not designed for learning.
