Koji Buterbaugh, an ROTC cadet at the University of Kentucky, stood guard Friday by the flagpole in front of the administration's Main Building. UK's Pershing Rifles, a ROTC honorary organization, conducted a reading of the names of the 2,819 people killed in the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11, 2001. Flags were planted on the lawn to represent each victim, and a changing of the guard was performed every half-hour. More tributes on the 10th anniversary of the attacks will be made Saturday at Kentucky's home-opening football game.

Gun found in suspect's vehicle

WEAPON SIMILAR TO ONE THAT KILLED LEXINGTON DOCTOR

By Josh Kegley

A gun and bullets found in the engine compartment of Marty Lee Roe's van were consistent with the gunshot wounds that killed a Lexington dermatologist last week.

Those new details were made available in arrest warrants for Roe obtained Friday by the Herald-Leader. The warrants were filed in Logan County, Ohio, where Roe was arrested Wednesday.

Roe, 65, is accused of killing Martha Post outside her dermatology practice on Huguenard Drive. Post, 55, was shot multiple times as she was leaving work Sept. 1.

According to the warrant, investigators searching Roe's van found in the vehicle's engine compartment "a gun and bullets, with similar characteristics to the one used to shoot Ms. Post".

Lexington police have said Roe was charged with murder Thursday after he was interviewed by police.

During that interview, Roe told detectives he was not in Lexington at the time of the shooting, but police had "been able to obtain evidence and statements placing Mr. Roe in

The former chief operating and pharmacy officers of the Fayette County Health Department's Primary Care Center are facing drug-related charges over transactions that allegedly occurred at the agency.

Kyle Black, who resigned in June as the center's chief operating officer, is scheduled to appear Monday in Fayette District Court for a preliminary hearing on two charges of attempting to obtain controlled substances by fraud, according to court documents.

Versailles funeral caisson filled a need in 9/11 aftermath

WAGON BORE BODY OF PENTAGON VICTIM

By Jim Warren

jwarren@herald-leader.com

In mid-September 2001, Versailles funeral director David Clark got a phone call from Denny Northcutt, who runs a funeral home in Morehead.

Their conversation soon turned to the devastating terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon a few days earlier.

viceman killed at the Pentagon. The family wanted a traditional caisson for the military funeral, but Northcutt couldn't find one. Did Clark have any ideas?

"You're not going to believe this," Clark replied. "But I have a brand-new caisson sitting here that's never been used, and I'll bring it to you."

A few days afterward, the caisson carried Earhart's flag-draped coffin to Morehead State
