GMC performs one-act musical

Georgia Military College Prep School is preparing to showcase its first one-act musical for the community after nearly two decades.

GMC Prep School's new Fine Arts Director Mark Weaver is excited to present "Thoroughly Modern Millie" at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 25, Thursday, Oct. 27, and Saturday, Oct. 29, in the Goldstein Center for the Performing Arts.

"This is GMC's first one-act competition show in over 15 years. The last one act was 'Steel Magnolias' in 1995 and was directed by English teacher Pam Grant, who is now our great assistant principal. As far as we know this is the first musical one act that GMC has ever done," Weaver said. "It's a huge show with a large and enthusiastic cast with over 30 in cast and crew plus 20 parent volunteers. The whole GMC community has thrown enthusiastic support behind this production. We are all very excited."

Set in the 1920s, the one-act musical comedy tells a story of a young, small town girl, Millie Dillmount, who moves to the big city to live during the modern movement and marry for money instead of love. She finds herself in the

Educators showing interest in District 3 BOE seat

By VAISHALI PATEL

vpatel@unionrecorder.com

After the local school board held a called meeting earlier this week to learn about the interim selection process for the District 3 seat, three former educators within the district have expressed an interest in filling the vacant post.

Former Baldwin High School Principal Lyn Chandler is hoping to fill the District 3 seat after Ray Markwalter recently announced his resignation from the post. Chandler believes his long history in education and business for the past 30 years in Baldwin County uniquely qualifies him for the interim and full-term position.

"I'm definitely interested in seeking [to fill the District 3 seat] as interim and in the election cycle. My background is in

GMC selects its annual alumni award winners

Special to The U-R

Georgia Military College alumni and friends will meet this weekend to celebrate Alumni Weekend 2011. One of the highlights of the weekend will be to honor a select group of individuals with Georgia Military College Alumni Awards. The recipients of these prestigious awards are selected annually from submitted nominations.

This year's award recipients are: Lt. Robert W. Yingling II, USA (Ret.), Distinguished Alumnus Award; Lt. B. Dwayne Prosser, Alumni Achievement Award; Cpt. Thomas Harper, Outstanding Young Alumnus Award; Mr. Terry M. Johnson, GMC Service Award; W. Barry Adams, Community Service Award; and Col. Fred Van Horn, Honorary Alumnus Award.

These six extraordinary people are representative of the fine character and countless acts of excellence displayed by the alumni and friends of Georgia Military College. GMC is fortunate to have been a part of the lives of each of these fine people. The contributions of the 2011 Alumni Award recipients have, without a doubt, made the world a better place.

The Distinguished Alumni Award recognizes alumni whose lives have embodied the ideals of Georgia Military College including discipline, moral character and learning, whose accomplishments have made a conspicuous and positive impression on those who will follow their lead, and whose lives are examples of extraordinary accomplishment. Robert W. Yingling is this year's Distinguished Alumni.

A 1976 graduate (JC), he was commissioned a second lieutenant of Air Defense Artillery and served with distinction throughout his 22-year career in the U.S. Army. He led at every level through his military career; was committed to excellence and had deep regard for his fellow soldiers and comrades. He earned a reputation as a skilled communicator and an articulate leader with broad-ranging grasp of the complex nature of his craft. He led young staff officers in drills essential to success in battle and the preservation of lives. Through a superb ethic and discipline, Yingling presented an example of fitness to lead and physical presence that commanded respect. Always physically fit, he was respected for his ability to lead, and not just participate, in the physically demanding elements of the profession of arms. Many of the young officers who followed him are today's commanders in the field.

After military retirement, Yingling continued applying his characteristic skills as an Air Defense Capabilities subject matter expert for naval and land based integration. He made significant contributions to Joint Force readiness

Keeping it clean

Vaishali Patel/The Union-Recorder

Around 90 Georgia Power Company employees, community volunteers and Oak Hill Middle School's Green ExStream Team donated their time to the eighth annual Lake Sinclair cleanup day Thursday. The local effort, 'Renew our Rivers,' is part of the statewide Rivers Alive program in which volunteers picked up debris from the water and cleaned the shoreline near Sinclair Dam, Highway 441, Green Boat Landing, Cedar Creek, Potato Creek and the Twin Bridges area. Among the items collected this year were the usual snack papers, plastic bottles, bait cups and tires, as well as boat docks and a man's wallet with cash, credit cards and drivers license inside. 'We appreciate the community support and for all of the sponsors for donating door prizes,' said Regina Lynch, head of the annual cleanup day. 'This year the number of volunteers has been down compared to past year ... but hopefully the number will increase next year.'
