OccupySLC protesters will remain in Pioneer Park

Salt Lake City Police Chief Chris Burbank assured demonstrators with the Occupy Salt Lake City movement would not be ousted from Pioneer Park, contrary to a letter posted on OccupySLC's website that claimed city leaders were planning to kick protesters out of the park this weekend. The protesters are part of the Occupy Wall Street movement, which targets corporate greed.

SIRTE, Libya — Moammar Gadhafi, Libya's dictator for 42 years until he was ousted in an uprising-turned-civil war, was killed Thursday as revolutionary fighters overwhelmed his hometown of Sirte and captured the last major bastion of resistance two months after his regime fell. The 69-year-old Gadhafi is the first leader to be killed in the Arab Spring wave of popular uprisings that swept the Middle East, demanding the end of autocratic rulers and the establishment of greater democracy.

"We have been waiting for this moment for a long time. Moammar Gadhafi has been killed,"

Prime Minister Mahmoud Jibril told a news conference in the capital of Tripoli. There were conflicting accounts about Gadhafi's final hours, with the interim government saying he was captured unharmed and later mortally wounded in the crossfire from both sides. A second account described how he was already wounded in the chest when he was seized and later sustained the other wounds. Interim government officials said one of Gadhafi's sons, his former national security adviser Muatassim, also was killed in

Hunger in America costs the country more than just the price of welfare, say researchers at Brandeis University and the Center for American Progress. The social and economic price of hunger totaled up to $167.5 billion in 2010, according to the report "Hunger in America, Suffering We All Pay For." Researchers calculated the cost by taking into account hunger's effects on educational outcomes, lost economic productivity,

BOUNTIFUL — For all the things Walt Webster has seen in his 37-year career in the railroad business, there are three things he wishes he never witnessed. "It slowly goes away. I guess it's like losing a loved one. You eventually break down a little bit, but it keeps recurring," says Webster, who used to work as a train engineer. He's talking about crashes he's been involved in where a person has died. Every time one happens —

HEBER CITY — In January, Dale Lawrence suffered a tragic wrestling accident while putting a move on his teammate during practice at Wasatch High School. Hampered with a spinal cord injury so severe it was compared to the late Christopher Reeves' paraplegic condition, doctors weren't sure if the high school senior would ever move again from the neck down. They were even uncertain if Lawrence would ever breathe on his own again. In an emotional moment at his alma mater's football game Thursday night, Lawrence proudly did both.

Before kickoff, the teenager, who no longer requires a ventilator to breathe, held onto a walker and received assistance from an athletic trainer to lift himself out of his wheelchair. He then ceremoniously lit the "W" in the southeastern corner of Wasatch's stadium. For a young man who's nicknamed "Super Dale," this was one of his most super moments. Fittingly, the touched crowd gave him a standing ovation. The football team, including many of his former wrestling and football teammates, supportively chanted together, "Dale! Dale! Dale!" "It's awesome," Lawrence,
