BOSTON MARATHON EXPLOSIONS

SUSPECTS' PHOTOS RELEASED BY FBI

BOSTON » The FBI released photos and video Thursday of two suspects in the Boston Marathon bombing and asked for the public's help in identifying them, zeroing in on the two men on surveillance-camera footage less than three days after the deadly attack.

The photos depict one man in a dark baseball cap and the other in a white cap worn backward. The men were seen walking one behind the other in the crowd, and the one in the white hat was seen setting down a backpack at the site of the second explosion, said Richard DesLauriers, FBI agent in charge in Boston.

"Somebody out there knows these individuals as friends, neighbors, co-workers or family members of the suspects. Though it may be difficult, the nation is counting on those with information to come forward and provide it to us," DesLauriers said.

The images were released hours after President Barack Obama and first lady Michelle Obama attended an interfaith service at a Roman Catholic cathedral in Boston to remember the three people killed and more than 180 wounded in the twin blasts Monday at the marathon finish line.

The two men — dubbed Suspect 1 (in the dark hat) and Suspect 2 (in the white hat) — are considered armed and extremely dangerous, DesLauriers said, and people who see them

GAS PRICES

Drivers are again paying less than $4 a gallon

Southland gas prices have finally fallen below $4 a gallon after an extended run-up.

And a combination of factors — including strong inventories, a decline in crude prices, the slow pace of hiring and more fuel-efficient vehicles — are expected to offset the usual price hikes that occur for the summer driving season, industry officials said.

"It's a lot better," said Maria Solares, 38, of Covina. "I use my car to pick up my kids at school and when gas was high it was costing me $40 a week. Now it's about $30 a week, so I can use some of that money for milk and bread."

On Thursday the average price for a gallon of regular in the Los Angeles-Long Beach region was $3.99, down a penny from the previous day, down 5 cents from a week earlier and down 20 cents from a month ago, according to AAA's Daily Fuel Gauge Report.

Further east, a gallon of regular in the Inland Empire was $3.97 on Thursday. That was down a penny

ONTARIO » Inland Empire economist John Husing is not backing down from his harsh criticism of Los Angeles World Airports — the agency that operates L.A./Ontario International Airport — saying Thursday that LAWA has deliberately run operations at the midsize airport into the ground.

On Wednesday, at a forum on the Inland Empire's economy, Husing left no doubt how he felt about LAWA's handling of ONT, saying "LAWA can go to hell."

He said Wednesday that airport management, not the economy, is to blame for ONT's struggles.

In a phone interview on Thursday, the Redlands-based regional economist said LAWA is declar-
