

BATON ROUGE
Slain police officers are honored
Nation+World » A12

NEW MOVIES
Damon is back as Superspy Bourne seeking answers
Spotlight

Spend Less Time Behind the Wheel!

Download our FREE Mobile Phone App

Now with SIGNALERT

TODAY H: 106 L: 70
SAT. H: 101 L: 67
SUN. H: 97 L: 68

See the full weather forecast » PAGE A14

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

'WE CAN FIX IT TOGETHER'

SAUL LOEB/AFP/GETTY IMAGES

Balloons fall on Democratic presidential nominee Hillary Clinton and running mate Tim Kaine on Thursday after she made her case for election to the White House, citing a steady hand, a long history of public service and a deep knowledge of U.S. government.

Philadelphia: Clinton accepts nomination for presidency, vows unity for fractured nation

Bernie Sanders delegates speak out on allegedly being forced from the DNC. PAGE A6

San Bernardino County Supervisor Curt Hagman, a Republican, offers his insights on the convention. PAGE A8

By David Montero
dmontero@scng.com
@DaveMontero on Twitter

PHILADELPHIA » After she spent an hour applying for the biggest executive job in the world, the glass ceiling broke and the balloons descended on Hillary Clinton.

They fell over Ava McElmurray, a 6-year-old from New York. They fluttered at the feet of 12-year-old Ada Kaine Eveyln-Jack, sitting with her mother amid the California delegation.

Their mothers wanted them to be here for the Democratic National Convention on Thursday, to feel the full weight of history — and to hear as Clinton offered a detailed, sometimes playful contrast to Donald Trump's pledge to lift the country by force of personality.

"Americans don't say 'I alone can fix it,'" Clinton said, quoting Trump's speech. "They say, 'We can fix it together!'"

Chinyere Nnodim-Jack and her daughter, CLINTON » PAGE 7

Chelsea Clinton and former President Bill Clinton applaud as Democratic presidential nominee Hillary Clinton speaks during the final day of the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia.

+ Online: For expanded coverage, go to SBSUN.COM

DEC. 2

Terrorist attack play put on hold

San Bernardino Valley College apologizes to victims' families

By Beau Yarbrough
byarbrough@scng.com
@LBY3 on Twitter

SAN BERNARDINO » A planned new play about the San Bernardino terrorist attack has been put on hold after families of victims complained.

"On behalf of the administration and faculty of San Bernardino Valley College, please accept our deepest apologies for any pain or hurt we may have caused during the planning stages of launching a fall production called 'SB Strong,'" college president Diana Z. Rodriguez wrote in a letter released Thursday afternoon. "Our faculty are very sympathetic to the sensitive nature of their work and are considering a new theme for our fall production. We will not be doing 'SB Strong.'"

Among those family members objecting to the planned play was Mark Sandefur, the father of Daniel Kaufman, one of the 14 people killed in the attack on the Inland Regional Center on Dec. 2.

"As the father of one of the 14 people killed, I am aghast at the SBSTRONG » PAGE 10

FEDERAL GRANT

Redlands Passenger Rail Project gets $8.6M

By Sandra Emerson
sandra.emerson@langnews.com
@TheFactsSandra on Twitter

REDLANDS » The project to bring passenger rail service to Redlands will receive a funding boost from the federal government.

The Department of Transportation has awarded the San Bernardino Associated Governments, or SanBAG, an $8.6 million grant for the Redlands Passenger Rail Project.

"It helps secure the funding package for the project, but it also illustrates that the region is doing projects that are significant," said Tim Watkins, SanBAG's chief of legislative and public affairs. "We're excited about it."

On Thursday, Rep. Pete Aguilar, D-San Bernardino, announced the grant, which is through the Transportation Investment Gen-
GRANT » PAGE 5

HEALTH

State's student vaccination rules have changed

By Courtney Perkes
cperkes@scng.com

California's tough new immunization law, aimed at quelling the spread of disease, will be put to the test for the fall school year, with a medical exemption now required for students to skip immunizations.

The law, which took effect July 1, was passed in response to a measles outbreak that started in December 2014 at Disneyland and sickened 81 people.

Here's a guide to how the law works:

Nearly all public and private school students must be vaccinated against up to 10 diseases, depending on age.

How can parents opt out of vaccines?

Written medical waivers must be submitted by doctors to describe a child's physical condition or medical circumstances.

The statement also must include what vaccines are being exempted, if the exemption is permanent or temporary, and if temporary, when the exemption expires. Permanent exemptions do not need to be renewed.

New personal belief exemp-
NEW RULES » PAGE 6

ELECTION 2016

Candidate raises cash with 'hunting permits'

GOP's pick for 31st Congressional District, Paul Chabot, is issuing his donors "terrorist hunting permits."
PAGE A5

The West Coast's Largest Custom Wood Shutter Manufacturer ... Since 1986

Ask us about our Zero% Financing
BEST SHUTTER WARRANTY IN AMERICA

CALL TODAY
(310) 853-1580

CA LIC #630141

30% OFF
Your Shutter Order

Call for details. Not valid with other offers. Limited time only.