PHILADELPHIA — Confronting a "moment of reckoning," Hillary Clinton is casting herself as a unifier for divided times and a tested, steady hand to lead in a volatile world.

"We are clear-eyed about what our country is up against," she said in excerpts released ahead of her speech

Thursday accepting the Democratic presidential nomination. "But we are not afraid. We will rise to the challenge, just as we always have."

Clinton's national convention address follows three nights of Democratic stars, including a past and present president, asserting she is ready for the White House. Thursday night she

PHILADELPHIA — Before Hillary Clinton accepted the Democratic nomination for president on Thursday night, a firm critique of her Republican opponent came from an unlikely person: Pennsylvania Gov. Tom Wolf. Wolf — a soft-spoken governor typically perceived as a policy wonk, who has made increasing state funding for schools a cornerstone of his platform — did not mince words when he spoke at the Democratic National Convention when it came to Donald Trump. He went

Bolden, 41, suffered facial injuries and a concussion during the arrest, which was captured by a surveillance camera outside the East 12th Street tavern where his apprehension took place. Bolden's arrest has sparked

Mayor Joe Sinnott on Thursday promised that the Erie Bureau of Police's investigation into the June 27 arrest of Montrice Bolden will be thorough and transparent, but he said authorities will not "rush to judgment" concerning the incident.

Sinnott, Police Chief Randy Bowers and members of Erie's African-American clergy, including Bishop Dwane Brock of the Victory Christian Center, addressed the incident during a Thursday morning news conference at Erie City Hall.

Bolden suffered significant injuries during the arrest outside an East 12th Street tavern. The incident
